

The new president of the Roanoke Chamber of Commerce is 49-year old Arthur T. Ellett. (roll film)

Ellett moves up from vice-president and will assume the new job the middle of next month. (show film)

Ellett was named yesterday at an organizational meeting of the board of directors.

He succeeds John T. Fiskwick in the job.

Ellett has been living in Roanoke 23 years.

He is a native of Pocahontas, Virginia.

The new president came to Roanoke in 1925 with the Roanoke Gas Company and is now secretary-treasurer and manager of the company.

He has been active in Red Cross and Community Fund work.

Moving up to the post of vice president is Shields Johnson, a vice-president and general manager of the Times-World Corporation.
