

Two Republicans--Senator James Turk of Radford and Delegate M. Caldwell Butler of Roanoke--have introduced a resolution in both houses calling for a complete study of traffic safety. According to Butler, there's lack of coordination in legislation being introduced concerning highway safety.

(Start film)

And the Roanoke Republican says there is a lot of interest in highway safety legislation.

(show film)

((Sound Up))