

(LIVE ON)

Reaction has been strong in Southwest Virginia to yesterdays decision by the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads in approving a Northerly routing for Interstate Highway 64. A movement is underway in Lynchburg and Roanoke to fight the decision.

(ROLL FILM)

Roanoke Businessman Gordon Willis, who conceived the idea of a Southern routing, confirmed this today:

(TAKE FILM SOUND UP End Cue: "and then we will decide our) course of action.")
